What if you live to see tomorrow?

My guess is that you can finish the headline of this essay. It is the opening line used for millions of evangelistic conversations. "If you died tonight, would you go to heaven or hell?"

I have found myself using the phrase in times past as well. It isn't that I want to fuss with people who use that approach, for I'm sure there will be people with Christ forever because someone used that line to get them to thinking about salvation.

It's just that most of us aren't going to die tonight or tomorrow. We'll live another few days and weeks, perhaps months and years. That's why I think a better question might be this: "If you wake up tomorrow, do you have a clear plan for using the day to honor Christ by the way you will use it?" (F. o. L)

When Jesus spoke of eternity, and he referred to what would happen in judgment. He asked people to think about what they had done for people who were sick, cold, hungry, and homeless. He even wanted to know if they had gone to people who were serving jail sentences. He didn't ask about the sorts of things we tend to have on our lists. He wanted to know about the fruits of righteousness.

James teaches Christians that, "What good is it, dear brothers and sisters, if you say you have faith but don't show it by your actions? Can that kind of faith save anyone? Suppose you see a brother or sister who has no food or clothing, and you say, 'Good-bye and have a good day; stay warm and eat well' - but then you don't give that person any food or clothing. What good does that do? So you see - faith by itself isn't enough. Unless it produces good deeds, it is dead and useless" (James 2:14-17 NLT).

Our walk with Jesus comes from a deep abiding faith in Him that drastically changes our lives. We are salt and light. We love the "unlovable," care for the hurting and live out the person of Jesus in our world. We live and we live in Christ just as Paul did.

So, how will we live if we do not die tonight? What adventure will we allow Jesus to guide us through as we live for him? The homeless, the sick, the hungry, the lonely: they are all around us. Live as Christ! - Terry
